A classic pool design set on acreage that is well and truly loved by all members of this young family

The step area boasts waterspouts for the kids to swim underneath.

“A good design is one that meets the needs of the whole family,” says Gavin Bazley, co-owner of Sydney-based Aquastone Pools and Landscapes. In this instance, the owners of this stunning acreage design in Sydney’s northwest have young children, so they wanted a pool that their children could not only enjoy now, but also well into their young adult life. The generous proportions of their 9m-long, solar-heated pool ensure the kids have plenty of room for fun, but there are also some great spots for mum and dad to enjoy as well.

The design incorporates a ledge area with steppers and as the ledge is only 500mm deep, it’s perfect for young children to sit on and play. The step area also boasts waterspouts for the kids to swim underneath, while also being an eye-catching water feature. The separate heated spa is enjoyed by the whole family, but mum and dad can also relax here together — minus the kids. And anyone with children knows how very important that is! This beautiful design offers something for the whole family. The pool’s generous size ensures that as the family grows, there will
